

Have a heart! Read an e-book!

It's an industry fact that 50% of paper books printed are never sold and become pulp. Crazy? Maybe, but it's true. Trees are essential to life on Earth. They make oxygen, preserve topsoil and equalize weather patterns.

Is this waste really necessary? Stephen King isn't the only author who publishes in e-book these days. Read your old favorites; discover a new favorite or two along the way. Too hard to learn? Reading an e-book is as easy as sending e-mail and turning on your computer or PDA. Don't want to sit at your desk? Ninety percent of e-book readers do their reading on a reader or PDA – anywhere they want to read from the beach or car to a darkened room. Readers start as low as $99 – as the hard-sell experts would say, “Pennies a day.” Too hard on the eyes? PDAs and readers are often backlit and allow you to adjust the font, thus are easier on the eyes than paper books. Try an e-book today. Don't let excuses stand in the way of a good read.

For more information, visit <http://www.epicauthors.com>